

CLINICAL ACADEMIC CENTERS IN EUROPE: Challenges and Opportunities

Faculty of Health Sciences, University of Beira Interior
Covilhã, Portugal

19 May 2021

AXEL RADLACH PRIES

Axel Radlach Pries studied medicine at the University of Cologne.

He worked as postdoctoral fellow in Cologne, at the Institute of Anaesthesiology of the German Heart Center Berlin and at the Free University Berlin where he became full professor for Physiology (1998), and head of the Charité Institute for Physiology (2001).

His scientific interests include microcirculation, endothelium, tumour vasculature, blood rheology, vascular adaptation and angiogenesis.

He was general secretary of the European Society for Microcirculation (ESM) and chair of the International Liaison Committee for Microcirculation. In the European Society of Cardiology (ESC), he chaired the Working Group for Coronary Pathophysiology and Microcirculation, the Council for Basic Cardiovascular Science and the basic science section of the Congress Programme Committee. His awards include the Malpighi Award of the ESM, the Poiseuille Gold Medal of the International Society of Biorheology and the Silver Medal of the ESC. Since 2015, he is dean of the Charité University Medicine Berlin.

From 2018 to 2019 he was president of the Biomedical Alliance in Europe and from 2018 to 2020 CEO of the Berlin Institute of Health (BIH). Since 2021 he is President of the World Health Summit (WHS).